

I've recently learned about Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air the anti-Kerry documentary "Stolen Honor." I believe this is an abuse of the public trust. Broadcasters should uphold a standard of fairness in exchange for the privilege of broadcasting over our public airwaves. If they go ahead with their partisan scheme, utilizing the airwaves that belong to all of us, I would hope that the FCC deny them the license to continue abusing their trust. By then, of course, it may be, in many important respects, too late. We are about to witness an abuse of the public trust which could decide a presidential election. All that power should have never ended up in the hands of one man in the first place. I hope the FCC does the right thing.

Sincerely,
Jason Lillis
